

There is a short, but very steep descent on the Ridgeline trail, where you may want to dismount, if you don't wear a crupper or if your horse is not accustomed to larger drops/ledges.

Not to be confused with Tiger (which is Orange and black stripes. Tiger and Orange overlap near the beginning so pay attention when they split at Whiskey Springs cattleguard.)

It appears on this map that there are 2-way sections, but they are not (these are fencelines we are skirting.) Bear with me as the new landowners are making changes to fencelines as you read this, so I opted to just keep the trail as it was last year, despite the fact that one of the fences might be gone by the ride date.
